The hotel sector's green transition.

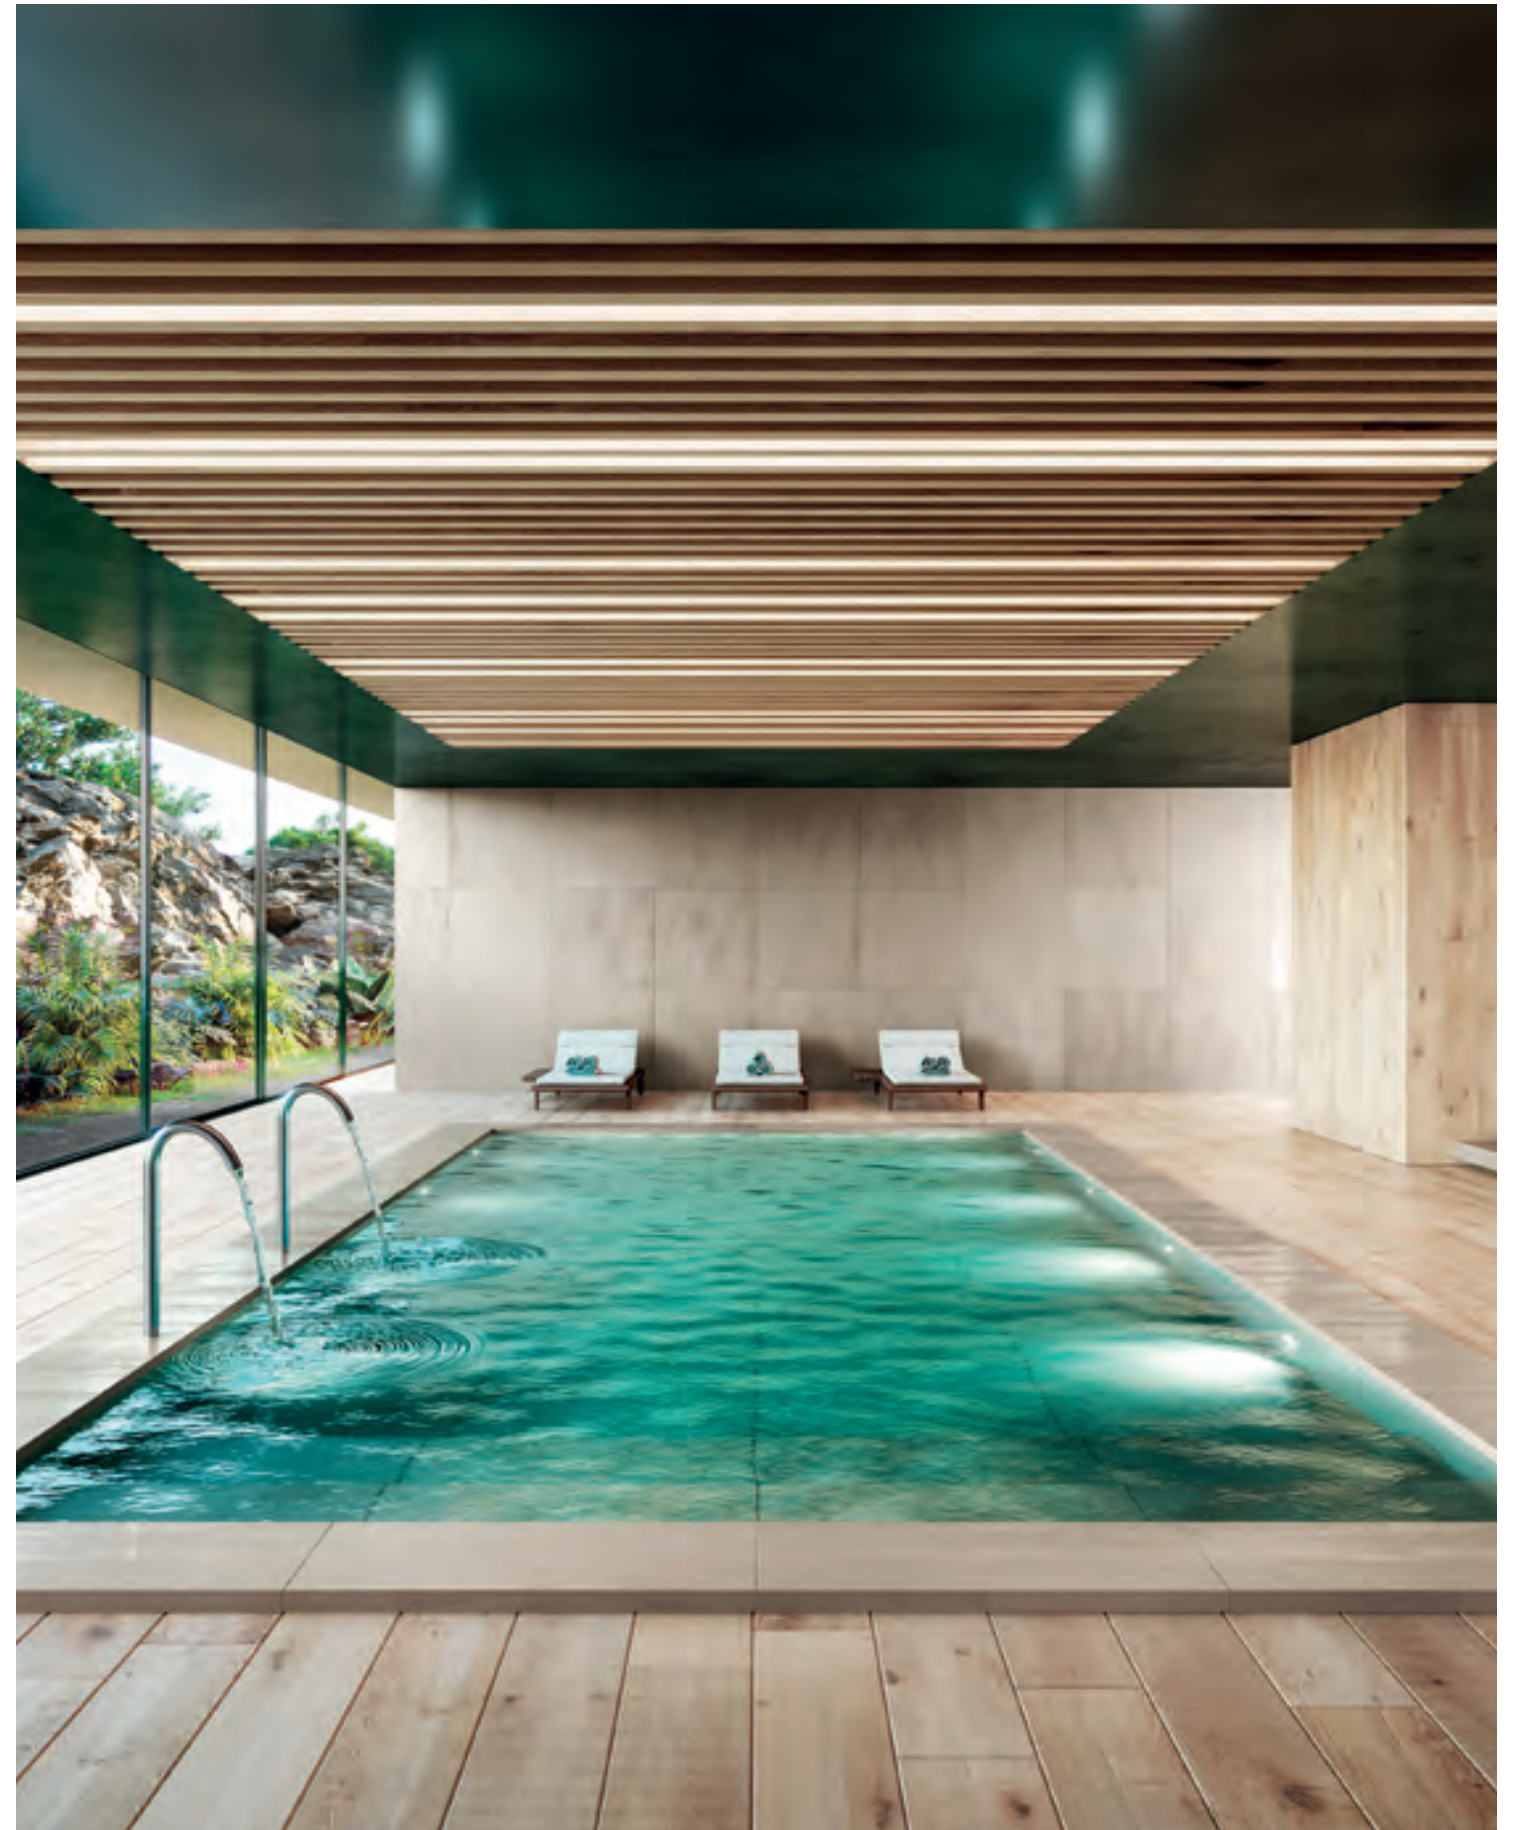

- Ecological commitment.

In a bid to improve environmental standards and rationalize its use of natural resources, Porcelanosa has reoriented its production systems towards design, manufacturing and distribution formulas that can reduce CO2 emissions and climate impact. This product category includes recycled ceramic parquets, and ventilated façade systems that improve buildings' energy efficiency and acoustic insulation. These systems and materials can be used to gain eco-friendly construction certificates.
